

Town Council Meeting Monday And All Present

The Meeting Opened at 7:30 This Week -- Many Present

A meeting of the Town Council took place on Monday night with all Councilors present.

Mr. Murry made application to purchase a town building. Council agreed to investigate same.

A motion to pay $275.95 to Mr. Halbin for work done at pumping station was passed.

Councilors Buchholz and Shaw were appointed to the committee of Health and Recreation with power to act.

Council agreed that Geo. Fitzhenry have permission to rent part of his house for $5.00 after June 1st.

Mr. H. Leming made application for permission to operate a Texas Station opposite the Redcliff Battery Station. Council could not grant application at present time.

Mayor Sangster and Secretary F. V. Britt were appointed to attend the municipal convention at Lethbridge on June 15 and 16.

Finance committee reported payment of $2,614.92 on account. The account was passed.

Former Town Lady Was Married in B.C.

McCLELLAND, LEE, MONTGOMERY

A pretty wedding to many in Redcliff was solemnized early in May when Annie J. (Nan), eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leemann of Redcliff, became the bride of Mr. Fred McClelland, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McClelland of Vancouver.

The bride wore an aquamarine dress with a veil and orange blossom wreath and a corsage of roses.

After a honeymoon trip to the United States, Mr. and Mrs. McClelland are going to live in Vancouver.

Just two more weeks till school will be out and the young people are anxiously waiting to see the new dressing rooms at the Pool.

The people of this district are very fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing and hearing the greatest living pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski. He is being featured for the rest of the week at the Monarch Theatre in a lovely screen drama entitled "Moonlight Sonata." Don't miss this if you love music.

Improvements in Town Properties, Numerous

Trees, Shrubs and Fresh Paint in Evidence

During an evening walk this week we were struck with the improvements which have been made in some of the residences and their surroundings in town. We admired E. T. Cooke well kept green lawn and shrubbery. We noted the new brick walk in front of the homes of Messrs. Bert and Ted Van Wert and the smart appearance of their houses, lawns and hedges. We noticed also the fine artistic fence around the property of Mrs. T. VanWert Sr. and the extensive improvements in the house which has been lately remodelled and painted.

Then there are the tennis courts on 2nd. Ave. South, for which our Danish friends are responsible, and which do them so much credit. By dint of united effort for the past three years these entertaining folk we see have splendid courts -- one surrounded by a fine hedge and healthy trees and the other which was started only last year is coming along nicely. These courts will soon form one of the beauty spots in town, of which we are in so great need.

Rebekahs Hold Tea Sale Last Wednesday

Several Ladies From the Hat Were in Attendance

The Rebekah Lodge held their Annual Spring Sale of Fancy Work, Novelties and Home Cooking in the I. O. O. F. Hall last Wednesday afternoon.

There was a good turn out, several ladies coming from Medicine Hat. Tea was served during the afternoon and a very successful event is reported.

The manner by which temporary help is to be given for this year to western farmers has now been settled by the Dominion Government. The assistance is appreciated, and it will do much to tide the West over for another year.

Their Majesties at Banff

Their Majesties thoroughly enjoyed their rest from official duties when they visited the Banff-Springs Hotel in the heart of the Canadian Rockies at Banff, Alberta. The Royal Party reached Banff on Friday evening, May 26th and remained until Sunday morning, May 28th. Both King George and Queen Elizabeth liked and drove over Banff's trails and roads and both expressed their delight and pleasure in the magnificent scenery surrounding the great internationally famous playground. Photograph shows their Majesties chatting with Mr. H. W. L. Macdonald King on the terrace of the Banff Springs Hotel, and enjoying a view down the Bow River Valley. This terrace overlooks the "Mile High Golf Course", with Cascade Mountain in the background.

Their Majesties Leave Canada This Morning

Love and Loyalty of Canadians Receives New Impetus

This morning, Thursday, May 15th, Their Gracious Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth leave these Canadian shores for Newfoundland, the distant colony of the British Empire.

The Royal Visit to which their Majesties loyal Canadian subjects have been looking forward with keen anticipation for so long is quickly nearing its completion and Canada must bid farewell to its beloved King and Queen.

At no time in the history of Canada has the whole population been so completely stirred in its feelings of love and loyalty as it has been during the past month.

To see them is to love them. The dignity of the King and the charm of the Queen together with their apparent wholesomeness and graciousness have won all hearts.

And so we bid them farewell and pray they may be safely conveyed to their home in the old land and to the arms of the little princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose who no doubt are counting the days till the return of their Royal parents.

That they may long be spared to rule over us and that they may one day return to us, is the prayer of every loyal Canadian.

God Save Their Gracious Majesties!

Dominion of Bureau Has A Statistics Report

Survey of Crops And Live Stock At June 1939

In June of each year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, distributes a card-board schedule to farmers for the purpose of collecting statistics of acreages under crop and the number of live stock and poultry on farms. An innovation of 1931 extended this survey to cover the breeding and marketing intentions with regard to live stock. In all of the provinces, except Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Alberta and British Columbia, these schedules are distributed to the farmers through the rural school teachers in these four provinces, the cards are mailed direct to the farmers.

The acreages of field crops, in particular, are the real foundation of our scheme of agricultural production statistics. Only slightly less important in our national planning is the necessity of having correct knowledge of the numbers of live stock on farms. The accuracy of our compilations in both these classes is largely dependent upon the obtaining of completed cards from a fair sample of the total number of Canadian farms.

Mr. J. R. Macdonald was the hostess on Wednesday evening at a delightful bridge party in honor of Miss Dorothy Davies, a bride of Medicine Hat. The honors of the evening were won by Mrs. Earl Cooper and Mrs. H. George while Miss Davies was the recipient of a dainty gift from her hostess.

A Redcliff Couple Have Silver Wedding

Many Gifts of Silver and Flowers Presented

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shaw was the scene of a happy gathering on Monday evening when about forty friends gathered to congratulate them on the occasion of their wedding.

Music was played and a Sing Song was enjoyed. Refreshments were served at midnight after which Mr. Carl Buchholz on behalf of their friends presented Mr. and Mrs. Shaw with a silver Cesspool, for which Mr. Shaw expressed their thanks. Several other pieces of silver and lovely bouquets of flowers were also presented to Mr. and Mrs. Shaw as a mark of the esteem in which they are held in the community.

Among the guests were Mrs. Romney and son of Brooks and Mr. Mellon and family of Tilley.

Jim Brown Conducts Last Evening Service

Curtis Buchholz Gives Report of Conference

The evening service in Gordon Memorial Church last Sunday was in the capable hands of Mr. Jim Brown who conducted the service in the absence of Rev. H. V. Kilson.

Mr. Curtis Buchholz gave a report of the Fifteenth Alberta Conference which was held in Calgary a week ago and to which he was the lay delegate representing Gordon Memorial Church Redcliff and Memorial Church Medicine Hat.

These two young men who were raised in Redcliff, performed their respective tasks in a very acceptable manner. They are a credit to their parents, their Church and their Community. They have performed tasks which in past years were performed by only much older men which brings us to the question, 'Are the older men slipping or are the younger men of much finer caliber than former generation of young men?' We pause for a reply.

Redcliff Road To Medicine Hat To Be Surfaced

Work Begins Next Month According to Engineer

We have a report to the effect that a much needed improvement is to be made in the road between here and Medicine Hat.

According to District Engineer Corners, this piece of highway will be hard surfaced by next month.

This is good news as this particular portion of the main highway is one of the most heavily travelled roads in the province and has been greatly in need of hard surfacing for some time.

Local Teacher Renders Outstanding Service

Miss Broadfoot Installs Radio in Classroom For Royal Visit

Miss Broadfoot has rendered a signal service to her pupils during the Royal Visit by having had installed in her classroom a radio kindly loaned her by Mr. Bert Allison.

Her pupils have heard every broadcast of Their Majesties' Visit since their arrival in Canada, which has been broadcast during school hours.

This is surely a service in the interest of modern education and reflects great credit upon a teacher of such enterprise and foresight.

We venture to say that Miss Broadfoot, by her service has settled for all time the matter of the allegiance of her pupils to the British Crown and Empire.

Who the said it can't rain in Southern Alberta? We can prove that he's all wet!

Commenced by Mr. Blakeman, C. P. R. First Aid Instructor, this season and who will receive Certificates and Vouchers, we notice the names of the following Redcliff students:—Albert Jones, Jean Paterson, Stanley Baldry, Wm. Balmer, Wm. Hodges, Fred Forbes, Thos. Jones, Sanford M. Kaldston, W. Lawton, Kenneth McKay, Gordon Newhouse, Wm. Paterson, John M. Siskup, Ray Strobel.

These successful student may get their certificates and vouchers upon application at the Super intendent's Office, C. P. R.

The Problem Of The Metis

It is not surprising that the half breeds, or Metis, of Saskatchewan have organized, held their first annual convention and drawn up a program of reforms, consisting of some 15 points to be presented to the federal government, or that as soon as they heard what was in the wind, the Metis of the other two prairie provinces expressed a desire to join forces with the Saskatchewan group and set up an organization to cover Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

For the Metis have very real problems, and one that is even more acute than that of the farmers in the prairie provinces, the unemployed dwellers in the cities and towns or those who are on the borderline of relief.

These others are regarded, more or less as the wards of one or more of the three governing units of the country, but not the Metis. Up to the present the federal, provincial and municipal governments have shown a disposition to ward the hands of the half breed population. They are the unwanted child and have been treated as such.

From the first days of settlement of the country the federal government has assumed and still assumes responsibility for the Indian, the original inhabitants of the country. All those who have come into the country since the days when the plains were primarily occupied by the Indians, the Metis and the settlers are presumed to be primarily the care of the municipalities, urban or rural, in which they were met except when such conditions exist as to warrant the proclamation of national emergency, when the federal government or the federal and provincial governments jointly come to the rescue of the distressed in partnership with the municipalities, and in some cases and some areas without municipal assistance.

Country Dwellers

The great majority of the half breeds reside in the rural areas. In the first place because by nature they are not suited to urban existence and in the second place it is because they have inherited the Metis love of the open air life, and under former conditions have found their subsistence more readily in the country than in the cities and towns. Their way of life, which they have inherited from their Indian forebears, is that of trapping, hunting, fishing and other outdoor pursuits.

For this reason the large majority of the Metis are still to be found in country districts and the greater number of them are squatters, building shacks on waste land and more and more land was put into crop, as wild lands where a little hay or fence post could be cut, rounded, and as increasing restrictions were placed on hunting, trapping and fishing in the interests of game conservation and wild life preservation and as such restricted areas were extended, the half breeds found it increasingly difficult to earn a living from their surroundings. With the depression deepening during the past decade and with no government willing to assume responsibility for them, the problems of the Metis increased literally tenfold and they are problems that will not solve themselves.

As a result of this situation at the close of the past decade, have been living in almost indescribable squalor and poverty. Two or three years ago a relation of the conditions under which they were living, by a review of a municipality in which many Metis resided, almost 2000 or 3000 delegates at the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities. The convention was told that the Metis were on the borderline of actual starvation which the municipality could not relieve because of its financial condition and the necessity of taking care of its own taxpayers; that a dozen or more were sleeping on bare earth floors in a single room; that they were being exploited by other residents of the municipality and it would take the municipality a long time to get such conditions could do nothing else than breed disease and immorality.

Should Be Settled

At the time of writing the Metis have not released for publication the 15 point program which they drafted as a memorial to the federal government, so that it is impossible to say what is their own solution of the problem. It appears, however, that it is a problem which must and should be solved, not only in the interests of the half breeds themselves, but in the interests of all whom they contact, at a joint conference between Federal and provincial authorities.

What such a conference would decide as the proper solution of the problem can only be a matter of conjecture, but, in view of the type of life to which they are not suited, it would seem advisable that reservations be created for them in the northern part of the provinces where they could live under conditions which would enable them best to care for themselves.

In any event the problem is serious enough to demand immediate and effective attention, especially in the light of the self evident fact that improved conditions for others will be of little or no benefit to the Metis population.

Magnificent Gift

Vicount Nuffield Donates Large Sum For British Troops

Vicount Nuffield, automobile magnate and philanthropist, announced his intention of contributing 1,000,000 shares of Morris Motors for "improving the facilities for recreation and enjoyment of the militia, Territorials and other forces."

His gift, worth approximately $1,500,000 ($4,000,000), was revealed in a letter to War Secretary Horne. It is intended, Lord Nuffield said, as a "permanent memorial to the spirit which animates us today."

Lord Nuffield has given away £12,000,000 (about $40,840,000) in the past few years, his benefactions extending over such a wide range as gifts to Oxford University, an iron lung for every empire hospital that wanted one, and large sums for the rehabilitation of distressed areas of Britain.

In his letter to the war secretary, Lord Nuffield said he had been "greatly impressed by the wonderful response to the national appeal for voluntary recruiting."

"No less remarkable," he added, "has been the willing acceptance by all classes and large sums for the principle of universal service, calling for equal sacrifice by all."

His letter said he was anxious to make "some personal contribution towards the comfort and well-being of those who are serving the King temporarily, the ordinary course of civil occupations and home surroundings, and the services of the nation. The gift will be administered by trustees."

Under British Rule

Chaplain On World Crisis Impressed

Back from a trip around the world, Rev. Father Wilfrid Langlois is impressed with the beneficence of British rule. His opinions are based mainly on what he saw in Egypt and India.

The pastor of St. Rose de Lima was chaplain on the world cruise of H.M.S. Empress of Britain. He touched at many ports and saw an opportunity to gain some impressions of what is going on in the different corners of the world.

In both India and Egypt, Dr. Langlois discovered that British rule has established order among the native peoples which only a few Britons are there in comparison to the total population, they guide the destinies of the countries and direct the national activities along progressive channels. The benefits of modern civilization have been brought to Egypt and India by the British. Education, medical care and scientific advancement have been brought through out the countries. The natives have the benefit of progress.

At the same time, the British have done a good job and their rule has been beneficent.—Window Star.

Entirely New Method

Machine Shells About 900 Pounds

Or Walnuts An Hour

A new method of shelling walnuts recently developed at the University of California, uses an explosive to burst the shells. The shelling operation, which is done by machine, consists of passing the walnuts over a circular saw which cuts an opening through the shell; blowing explosive gas mixture into the nut; and finally passing the nut through a flame which explodes its gaseous content. This method of breaking shells avoids fracturing the nut meats, which are not affected by the explosive. The machine in which this series of operations is accomplished opens about 900 pounds of walnuts per hour.—Scientific American.

Robins Use Airplanes

Build Nests In Machines On Airfield

In England

A recent report from Donham in Buckinghamshire reveals that the robins there prefer to build their nests in the airplanes on the local airfield. Possibly this is merely the result of advanced educational ideas among the robins, who hope to render their offspring "air-minded" at an earlier age than usual; or perhaps, although they seldom migrate, they have begun to hanker after the delights of more luxurious travel, and have evolved this happy scheme, whose slogan is, no doubt, "Stay at home and see the world."—Christian Science Monitor.

Trips To Mars

Edmonton Professor Puts Damper

On Flight To Other Planets

Wares of the world, trips to Mars, rockets to the moon—Utopias created by Jules Verne and H. G. Wells—were jettisoned in a 10-minute speech by an Edmonton professor before the Royal Society of Canada at Montreal.

Dr. J. W. Campbell told a group of Canadian savants it would take a rocket the size of a giant mountain like Mount Robson to carry any earth-dwellers to the earth's satellite, the distant, bland, affable celestial body, these of countless love songs through the centuries.

In meticulous scientific terms he placed the legends of the rocket to the moon, and tore the ground from under the feet of the Utopia writers. "For every pound of matter returning from such a trip 1,000,000 tons would have to start out to provide mass for speed control," Dr. Campbell said.

He explained his paper had arisen from an alleged recently-made statement by an astronomer that "the possibility of travelling to the earth's satellite in a rocket does not seem so remote now as the realization of the television dream did less than a century ago, considering the scientific principles involved."

The Queen's Paradox

The return of the paradox which has been prophesied won new approval when it was learned that Queen Elizabeth had on made especially for her trip to Australia. The paradox is said to match one of her full-length garden party dresses and has a case handle studded with rubies and sapphires. The can was presented to the Queen by an Indian prince.

A Growing Industry

Cultivation Of Soyabean In Canada

Pays Well For Services

During the past few years the soyabean has been finding a place in Canadian industry and its cultivation is today an established factor in Canadian farming. The most important products of vegetable oil-seeds are oils and meals, which in turn become raw materials for many useful commodities.

Today, Canada is to a great extent dependent on foreign sources of supply for vegetable oils and meals. About $15,000,000 leaves this country annually for vegetable oil-seeds products which could very well be retained here to benefit Canadian agriculturists. Both the federal and provincial governments have for some time been acclimating native grown soyabean and many varieties are now available and suitable for localised soil conditions.

It has been definitely proved that Canada can produce soyabean in commercial quantities. In fact the soyabean crop last year in Prince Edward Island, alone was valued at more than $35,000.

Radio Affects Homework

Offers Too Many Distractions Opinion

Of Australia's Teachers

The Australian Press Union says Victorian and New South Wales education authorities are concerned at the effect of radio on homework. New South Wales offers questions whether the home now has a suitable atmosphere for homework, because many parents wish to listen.

Victorian teachers are using this as one argument for a general reduction in homework. They say that the distractions at home are such that secondary school children cannot possibly do all the lessons set.

Collecting From Spain

Italy Will Accept War Materials In

Payment For Services

Italy is preparing to collect war debris from Nationalist Spain by accepting Spanish materials valuable in munitions making, a reliable informant said.

The total owed by General Francisco Franco for aid to the Spanish Nationalist cause is said to be approximately 10,000,000,000 lire, (about $200,000,000). This does not represent cash advances but airplanes, guns, munitions and other supplies.

Italy is said especially to want iron ore in return.

Italian plans are to exploit the ore reserves with Italian technicians, and possibly laborers, and to transport the ore in Italian ships.

An Italian-Spanish combine already has been set up to take care of Spain's mercury output. Since Italy and Spain are the main mercury-producing countries, the firm will control a great part of the world's mercury.

Tribute To Queen Mary

People All Love And Admire Her

To be captivated in an automobile when you are of the age of 72 may be thought to indicate a cruel malice of fate. Queen Mary's escape without serious injury added a new warmth to the sincere and spontaneous congratulations that were showered upon her on her birthday anniversary. Her composure, poise and dignity have never faltered here. She has gone through great crises. She has had a deep experience of suffering and sorrow. To her late husband, to her children, her grandchildren, and most of all, her people she has been a symbol of confidence, a disciplined, strong and patient character.

She was equal to all her multifarious duties as Queen Mother. If her daily round is shorter, she still says her part quickly and efficiently. As Princess Mary of Teck she learned in an unorthodox household economy and an unorthodox life. She was unafraid in her charities. While she has always kept the official etiquette carefully, she is noted for her ease and domestic confidence with common folk. Wherever she goes she seems to be as popular as Victoria was.

In some respects she is "Victorian". That may remind us again with what superciliousness that adjective was so often misapplied a few years ago. Whether at some occasion of state or saying nice things to a tennis champion and beaten opponent, Queen Mary always does and says the right thing. In this country she has won the respect and admiration deserved by her high qualities; and sympathy with her trials has been a by-product of her life. How Industries Grow

(By A. H. Warwick)

The Industrial Development Board of Manitoba has for many years

worked for the establishment of new

Always Buy Smaller Products, Made In Western Canada.

(By A. H. Warwick)

The Industrial Development Board of Manitoba has for many years

worked for the establishment of new industries and the expansion of existing ones in this province in an endeavour to bring greater prosperity to urban, as well as to the agricultural people of this part of the West.

Today, in order to illustrate that where there is local industrial supply there is bound to be growth, stories of two different types of manufacturing will be very briefly related.

Fifteen miles north of Winnipeg, on a small overlooking road that skirts the Red River, stands the old stone church of St. Andrew's. Below it and on the further side of a creek that runs behind it, one may see, at the river's edge, a hollow in the ground irregularly marked with stumps of stumps and a few small grassy, now about the excavation be-

Mr. E. H. G. G. Hay was the miller in those pioneer Red River days. He died some years ago, but the spirit of industrialism shown by him has been passed on to his son, who has been able to find the best way to that ground out the wheat to make the mill's bread for the city of Win-

Tribute To The Bike

Bicycle In Its Second Century Meets Demand Of The Times

Perhaps current popularity of the "bike" is merely proof that "the first hundred years are the hardest." But to us there's something significant in a renaissance of cycling in the midst of our highly-gearred, fast-paced motorized machine age.

Whatever else may be parked in the shadows of the paraphernalia and trappings in New York's "World of Wonders," there will be an abundance of bicycles. And recalling how the "age" of the "bike" was a worry and problem of yesterday, it would be interesting to be able to gauge the reactions of the cyclist of yesterday to the problems the bicycle poses to-day.

Regulation and licensing of bicycles is in effect in many places. Even in leisurely Bermuda, where the "bike" is the chief mode of travel, every wheel has its numbered license tag. Regulations also are creeping up to compel big riders to respect traffic rules no less than motorists. Tail lights are required in many communities. All because the bicycle, on modern highways, has become a major hazard, with some 60,000 cyclists killed last year and about 25,000 injured.

That's one phase of modern cycling. Another is the growing demand for bicycle paths, whereby the cyclist may depart without fear and wedged between a truck and the last sport coupe. The popularity of the bicycle is longingly retained. The "bike" offers exercise, relaxation, and a means of escape from the pressure of our modern tempo. It is both a joy and an antidote. May its next hundred years be as fruitful. —New York Post.

Keeping Milk Cool

Cold Water Cools Milk Many Times Faster Than Air

It hardly seems possible that Nature intended that milk should be used other than in the natural way. Certainly she could scarcely be expected to provide a preservative for keeping milk in bottles, pails, or pails. But she does it given a chance. Fresh milk has been found to contain a substance called lactin, which restrains bacterial growth for a certain period. The effect of this natural preservative is soon destroyed if cooling is delayed.

Scientists have discovered that bacterial action is retarded at temperatures from 70 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Even at 50 degrees milk will tend to spoil, but if it is cooled to 40 degrees as quickly as possible the bacterial count does not increase so long as the temperature is kept down. Even if it later warms slightly the effect of lactin remains for 24 hours or longer.

Milk cools very slowly in air. It takes about 12 hours to bring milk down to 50 degrees even if the air is below freezing. Cold water cools the milk 30 times as fast, quicker still if the water is stirred, best of all if ice is used. Of course, ice is now several new mechanical devices for cooling milk, but it is not always possible to use them on the farm. Details for the construction of installed cooling tanks for the farm are given in Bulletin No. 165, "Cooling Milk on the Farm." A copy may be obtained by writing to "Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa."

Council Of Education

Suggest Federal Government Should Consider Problem

Establishment by the federal government of a Dominion Council of Education to consider the general problems of Canadian education, and the addition of a commissioner of education to the education branch of the bureau of statistics was suggested by Registrar T. H. Matthews of McGill University.

In an address prepared for delivery at one of the closing sessions of the National Conference of Canadian Universities, Registrar Matthews said the education council should act as an advisory and consultative body and generally promote the cause of education throughout Canada. The commissioner would act as chairman of the council and carry out its policies.

Plans for establishment of four large blood storage plants in London for use in transfusions in event of wartime bombings were disclosed in the quarterly published by the Red Cross.

Coin Operates Letter Box

Mailman Installed At General Post Office In New York

A coin-operated letter box which will enable the public to mail letters or postcards without purchasing adhesive stamps was unveiled in the lobby of the General Post Office at New York.

The "mailomat" is a machine about five feet high with one slot for pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters. As much as 60 cents may be deposited in the slot, the machine inserting coins sufficient to cover the postage. The mailer turns a dial to the desired stamp value for a scheduled collection by postal workers.

The machine charges no premium, giving full postage value for the amount deposited. It will accept seven-cent stamps as large as 12 inches by six, and up to 8 1/2 inches in thickness. Letters marked for air mail, foreign and special delivery may be deposited through the machine as well as ordinary mail.

A Remarkable Record

Salvation Army Locates Large Number Of Missing Persons

Reports of missing men and women reached the missing persons bureau of the Salvation Army in Toronto from four parts of the world at the rate of nearly 2,000 a year. It was learned from Commissioner G. E. Carpenter.

During 1934, as many as 788 inquiries were recorded in the men's inquiry department for investigation, and of that number 214 cases were closed satisfactorily. Approximately 300 women were reported missing or unheard of in the same period.

Working quickly and unostentatiously in close co-operation with the police, the press, the R.C.M.P. and the department of justice, the Salvation Army's missing persons bureau succeeded in locating about one-half of those reported missing. Commissioner Carpenter said: "Unusual and varied are the reports received by the bureau. Persons reported unheard of and missing for as long as 40 years have been located by the Salvation Army's efforts."

Their Inspiration

Effect Of Bible Reading On The People Of Great Britain

In one of his lectures recently delivered in Toronto, Earl Baldwin expressed his belief that Great Britain's disposition to attempt the solution of international problems by arbitration and conferences roots back into generation upon generation by Bible-reading by the people.

At the annual meeting of the American Bible Society, just held, he said that although he had been published reports, as was also the remarkable fact that in Germany alone the Bible sold 400,000 copies.

It is interesting, too, to note that the Scriptures moved into 100 new languages in 1933, bringing the total number of tongues in which some part of the Bible has been translated to 1021.

Without any exaggeration it can be said that no other book in the world even faintly approaches this record. And one thing is sure—the cause of human freedom has no greater ally. —Halifax Herald.

INDIANS TRAVEL FAR TO GREET THE GREAT WHITE CHIEF

Problem Still Unresolved

Nature Of Submarine Makes Safety Hard To Achieve

An article in the New York Times says: "Failure to solve the problem of a submarine must be attributed not to any lack of ingenuity or to bureaucratic inefficiency, but to the sea, the vagaries of the weather and the very nature of a structure which has no excuse for its existence apart from its possible use in war."

In a hull packed like a witch with machinery, there is little room for emergency compartments. Moreover, the exigencies of war must always come first. To make the submarine very much safer than it is may therefore be beyond the naval architect. Since 1904 over 50 submarines have gone to the bottom and over 750 men have lost their lives—figures which do not include World War losses. Between peace service and war service in a submarine there is little choice. Crews know it and face death heroically.

London Journalist Says Service Better Than In Britain

Graham Hutton, author, traveller and former assistant editor of the London Economist, said in an interview that although he had been in Europe that if he had been there.

Service of international news on the continent is "remarkable," he said. "It is much more comprehensive than anything we get in England, or for that matter in any other part of Europe."

Suspected Of Theft

But Kreidler Played Violin And Proved His Identity

Kreidler was once crossing from Oshawa to play at the Queen's Hall, having just purchased a world-famous Stradivarius violin, the news of which was published everywhere. Having an hour to spend before the boat sailed he left his luggage in his cabin, wandering off round the back streets carrying his precious violin.

In a small music shop he saw a violin about which the owner was very proud. Kreidler realised it was not a very good instrument and produced his own for inspection. The shopkeeper went into ecstasies over it, and then suddenly asked to be excused for a moment. He returned with a portly Belgian gendarme, to whom he said: "Arrest this man, he has stolen Kreidler's violin." Kreidler tried to explain his identity, asking them to fetch a gramophone record catalogue and see his photograph in it. They brought one, but it was a Continental edition without photographs. So Kreidler took up his violin and played the opening bars of "Clorissa Violino." It was enough; he was released at once.

A Good Suggestion

How To Clean Paint Pails For Use Around Farm

Large paint pails, which are often made of steel, provide handy containers around the farm or shop when cleaned inside thoroughly. To do this easily, first scrape the inside to remove as much paint as possible. Then set the pail in a tub of water with a weight in the bottom to hold it down, and drop a lighted newspaper inside. The paint residue will ignite and burn away easily without melting soldered joints. Water surrounding the pail protects it against excessive heat. —Popular Mechanics.

Potato Sacks

Alterations Have Been Made In The Standard Sizes

An important alteration has been made in the standard size of bags in which potatoes are packed for sale. The 40 pound and the 90 pound bags which have been in extensive use, particularly in Eastern Canada, are to be abolished after July 1, 1935, by an amendment of the regulations under the Fruit, Vegetables and Honey Act.

The only legal weights after that date for potatoes packed in cotton, jute, or mesh bags for sale are 100 pounds, 75 pounds, 60 pounds, 25 pounds and 15 pounds. The weights for potatoes pre-packed in paper bags are 10 pounds, and 15 pounds.

There are many advantages attached to the change. The new bag weights are computed in quarters of the hundredweight and it will be easy to recognize the difference in weight when the bags are on display.

Suits Prevailing Opinion

Canadian Almanac Tells People About Flying Union Jack

In an editorial the Spectator quoted the opinion of Lord Andrew D. Macleay, of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and formerly a "Lieutenant R.N.V.R., H.M.S. Choptain," to the effect that the Union Jack is "strictly the King's colors and should not be displayed by private citizens 'on shore or abroad.'" The question goes on to say that the Union Jack "should be flown over all government buildings, army headquarters and on provincial and federal property. It is only flown abroad by direct representatives of the King or by war vessels of British Navy or by an admiral of the Fleet. It is greatly used in error by private citizens, but, thanks to the increasing popularity of the Red Ensign with a Dominion or colonial device in the fly, its use, except by authorized authorities, is gradually dying out."

In contradiction to this, we reproduce the following extract from the Canadian Almanac, which is more in accordance with generally prevailing opinion: "The Union Jack is the official flag to be flown on land in Canada. It is the flag to be flown by British subjects on land in all His Majesty's dominions. The Canadian Red Ensign, with the Arms of the Dominion of Canada in the fly, should be used only on Canadian registered merchant vessels. (Authorized by Admiralty warrant of 2d February, 1924, and Order-in-Council P.C. 543 of 26th April, 1925, for Canadian registered vessels.) The Canadian Blue Ensign, with the Arms of the Dominion of Canada in the fly, is used on the Jack staff of all ships and vessels of the Royal Canadian Navy."

Whatever may be the strict orthodoxy of the matter, it is certain that the good old Union Jack has been used for a hundred years, and it is a uniquely and irreplaceable in the affections of the British public throughout the Empire, whether it be said to be a mere "national" flag—Hamilton Spectator.

Bring in some of your paragons who find it so easy to criticize the mistakes of others as they're human." —Charlottetown Guardian.

Interesting Visit

King George And Queen Elizabeth At Home of Banff Pioneer

King George and Queen Elizabeth made their first visit to a private home in Canada when they talked with Jim Brewster, colorful Banff character, and Mrs. Brewster, learning of Indian folklore, the pioneers and early explorers of the Canadian Rockies.

Their Majesties visited the Brewsters for a half-hour inspection of his collection of Indian souvenirs and rare records of early travels as well as the Palliser journals of 1858 and 1860.

Guide and companion of their Majesties during the royal stop in Banff National Park, Brewster answered scores of questions about mountains, big game hunting and the region's early days.

This is Life Insurance

IN THOUSANDS OF Canadian homes, life insurance money pays the bills—helps to support widows and children—and provides for old age.

Life insurance dollars buy the food for three square meals a day. They buy clothing and other necessities of life. They pay the rent and fuel bills to ensure warm, comfortable homes. They give children an education and a mother's care.

Each year, life insurance policy-owners and their beneficiaries in Canada receive 150 million dollars—five hundred thousand dollars every working day—twenty thousand dollars every hour.

And it is significant that more than 75% of all life insurance payments are made to living policyholders.
